Maha woke up early for her first sports day at school. She wore her red T-shirt and comfortable shoes. When she arrived at school, she saw many students getting ready for the races. Maha felt a little nervous, but her best friend Salma stood beside her and smiled.

During the running race, Maha tried her best and finished in second place. Salma cheered loudly for her. After the race, they sat under a tree and drank water together. Maha felt proud because she did not give up. When she went home, Maha told her father everything about sports day. He was happy and told her she did a great job.
